

My Aunt Mary is an 8th Grade Teacher

By: Lilli Groves

Hi! I'm going to talk about my Aunt Mary. Her name as a teacher is Mrs. Schultz. She is a Science teacher in 8th grade. She has riddles that you have to figure out. Today the answer to her riddle is steam.

She takes me to school every day and she does a lot of work. When I grown up I want to be a Science teacher like my Aunt Mary.

The House Fire

By: Logan Deacetis

On Sunday, something bad happened. One of my friends house got burned. His name is Justin Allen.

The fire was only in his room. He says it could be good because they can get it remodeled. This would be his room and the kitchen ceiling.

I went over to his house and it looked horrible. It actually looked cool because you could see the fireplace and it was super dark. That is all he told me, so I'm done for this week.

Luckily, I used to have skates in my basement and practiced skating a lot. I knew how to skate on my left foot. I had so much fun!!! I hope my parents take me there again.

skating on one foot

By: Avery Ohlendorf

It was hard skating on one foot at first, but then it got easier!

I was in the middle of a video game and had some time still left and my mom had a great idea to skate on one foot.

At first, my mom didn't have permission for the bottom of my boot to be on the skating rink and my mom had to hold on to me. I was so embarrassed that I quit.

I wanted to skate really bad afterward. Christina asked if I could skate with her, but my mom said no. I was about to give up, when an idea hit me. I could ask to see if the bottom of my boot was able to be on the floor and skate on one foot.

Twins and a Baby Boy!

By: Tre Bowman

My mom told me she was having a baby when we went on vacation. But Monday, mom went to an ultrasound and the nurse said mom was having TWINS!!! I am so excited. I hope one is a boy and one is a girl. Mom wants two boys.

I already have a baby sister named Grace. She is so cute. I love my sister so much.

Last night, I was at the hospital with my Aunt Emily. She had her baby. She had a boy. His name is James Samuel Brownfield. We call him Sam. He is so cute and small. I love babies!
